To Whom it may concern,

I am told Emergent Solar Energy is pursuing the opportunity to install solar panel projects for your farm clients. It is with pleasure that I share the following comments and key points about the way they handled my project.

From the first time I was first referred to Jeremy up to and including current dialogue about production, I believe that he is truly interested in me and how I can maximize the investment I put into my project.

Before the project started Emergent Solar Energy helped me in determining my ideal project size, securing a USDA grant & information on maximizing deductions and incentives on my taxes. During the physical part of constructing the project, Jeremy was on-site and gave me daily updates on progress and regularly asked for feedback. He listened to any concern I had for final placement of panels, underground supply lines, and overall aesthetics of the finished project. I take pride in how my farm property looks and Jeremy and his crew went above and beyond to ensure that the finished product is something that I am proud to show off to anyone wanting a closer look.

Now that my array is up and running, Jeremy has continued to prove his desire to see me happy with my investment. I can give two relevant examples: While getting too close with a mower, one of the panels was bumped & broken. After a quick phone call, Jeremy got the ball rolling, and I was repaired and back in business within hours. Another example of Jeremy's commitment to long term excellence is the text I received that stated a row of panels was not producing what they should compared to their neighboring panels not far away, per his online monitoring abilities. I went to check on the panels and see that a tractor had been left in front of it, casting a shadow and compromising solar production.

For the reasons listed above and more I would be happy to provide, I would highly recommend Emergent Solar Energy to any business or organization. Jeremy has provided the resources and expertise to get me from thinking about solar as a good idea to investing in getting myself and my farm to a point of near energy independence while pursuing our farms sustainability goals.

Sincerely,

Will Harlow
